A MALICIOUS ATTEMET. The attempt to before Stanter's reputation by publishing HI tempered extracts from the late Major Bantunter's diary will fall. Major BARCELLOT had charge of Standary's rear guard. Le appears to have been a husty for the speculators. tempered man, indecisive and with little qualification for command. He certainly had no control over the semi-civilized and bybarous men under him. The disaster which fell upon the rear guard and the fate which evertook Major Baurenhor are unquestionably to be attributed to his own faceuspetency. STANLEY succeeded in an infinitely more difficult and dangerons tank.

TWO OPINIONS.

Mr. Thomas S. Bonty is president of the Maryland Republican Club. He is reported as saying: "We don't care a snap for Rooseveer and his civilthrough more than one more Congress.

Besides we think Major McKin as a more important man in the Republican party than Mr. Boxp, and more apt to know what the future has in store for the "civil service business" than that miley person.

A SILLY ARGUMENT.

The latest and biggest fool argument In favor of the McKinney act comes from Boston. The silly Adecreiser ut | war are coming to this country. They ters it, as follows:

Mr. GROBOE WILLIAM CURTIS, in Luryer's Weekly, puts the Pennsylvania situation in this wise: "In Pennsylvenia it is not a question of Republi can against Democrat, or of Protection seriest Tariff Reform, but of simple official honesty against official corruption and rascallity. This is not to say that there are no Democratic rasca's, but that the Democratic party has not nominated one of them, nor selected the most conspicuous one in the State for the chief leadership of the party. HERERBERG TO THE talk of sending Congressman Curse to the Senate In place of Joseph E. Brown, the St. Louis Globe Democrat says: "This would be a distinct loss to the Democratic party in the House. If Chisp remains in that body, and it should be carried this year by his party, he is our candidate for Speaker." In view of this Republican support, Mr. Casse had better go to the Senate if he can.

APPER A PROLOGORD STRUGGER GOVernor Campugan of Ohto has won his fight for home rule and honest government in Cincinnati. The Legislature yesterday named the bill to authorize the Mayor of that city to appoint a nonpartition Board of City Affairs, to conslat of four members. They are to serve until next April, when their successors are to be viccion.

IS THAT MYSTERIOUS product of NA ture's laboratory, natural gas, becoming caliausted? The order of the gas company at Pitteburg that no pudding furnaces In that city or its vicinity shall be supplied with natural gas hereafter makes it look that way. Or it may simply be a move to squeeze a higher price out of the furnaces.

PRESERVING AUTUMN LEAVES. A Few Hints on a Timely Topic to Lovers of Nature,

In the first place, do not gather too many. A few absolutely perfect leaves are better than the scores of common ones that we are tempted to collect. Remember the fate of Aladdin, says Good Housekeeping, in the garden, where gems grew instead of blossoms, and do not take too many, bearing in mind the saying, "The greedy soul is leved by neither gods nor men." Carry an open basket on one arm, and select the specimens with a critic's eye. The leaves of the hard maple are always gorgeous in huc and delicate in outline. Those that wear the deepest tints of crimson or yellow are best for our par scattering on her boughs the richest brightest colors. The sumseh (or shoe Nature has al-ways been predignl to the beech tree. make) glows with vivid crimson, and a clear amber shines through the dainty larch and chestnut leaves. Then there are the dull chocolate and mottled red of the blackberry vines, while the poplar and aspen shine out with a slivery white, all speckled over with touches of green.

Gather these "wild-wood beauties" with as much care as would be bestowed upon a bouquet of garden blossoms, and assten home with them before they gin to dry and curl. Upon reaching home let the first care be to have two hot irons ready. Cover the kitchen table with three or four layers of news papers, over which fasten smoothly a soft cotton cloth. Have at hand a lump of beeswax, fied in a small bag, and s similar package of resin. Now smooth out a leaf with the hand, rub the bees wax lightly over the iron, letting the ot, smooth surface glide quickly over the leaf, first on the upper and then on the lower side, pressing a little more firmly a third and fourth time, until the leaf is thoroughly dry. The glow-ing colors will be firmly fixed, and will never fade, unless ex-posed to the sunshine. Having treated all the leaves similar manner, they are ready for the resin, or "the finishing process." With a moderately hot iron, which must be lightly and rapidly rubbed over the bag of resin, go over every leaf, first on the upper, and then on the lower side. This gives them a brilliant, hard, glossy finish that makes them almost indestructible. Many persons compiain that the glossy appearance is unnatural. While this is true to some extent, yet the protection given by the coat of resin could be obtained in no other way. To preserve small branches and boughs with leaves one must proceed in the same manner, pressing the limbs and twigs with the fron until dry, being careful to avoid the point where the leaf is attached, as too much heat jus there will cause it to drop off instantly. To achieve perfect success, be sure to take the leaves when freshly gathered. If they are kept over only one night very much of their glowing beauty will have vanished, and no efforts can bring it back or arrest the pro-

Give them plenty of space, so that they will not touch or stick to each other. Cover them entirely with more papers, and let them remain in this cool dark sociustos until ready to decorate the rooms or otherwise use them as things of boauty and joy. Reserve a few of the brightest and most perfect specimens for the holiday times, when they will come out of their durkness so beautiful that they who see them will have no longing for sommer flowers, but will revel to the unfading giories of the autumn leaves.
